PUTTING A ROD IN PICKLE.

The new convert to Toryism and local government influences at Vancouver, in the course of a bitter article on "True Journalism," gives expression to the following sentiments, which, it must be inferred, are meant to convey the writer's conception of his subject:

"THE TIMES man is not even 'a cunning devil;' he cannot accomplish his purposes by threats, because nobody, knowing his utter weakness, is afraid of him; he would like to fawn upon those whom he maligns, but that they despise him and will have no business with him; he has even attempted flattery by the tongue only to be spurned as an useless thing by one the latchets of whose shoes he is unworthy to unloose, but whom he would, if allowed, smother in fulsome praise. Like the true "devil" having failed to cajole, he essayed to injure. He has, like all of the enemy's imps, his reward. He has been mulcted by a jury of honest and true men in a goodly sum and costs for libeling a magnificent manhood which bore his affronts for a long time, but, patience ceasing to be a virtue, at last, in his own defence, brought the assailant into a court of British law and never allows his honor—which is to him his life—to be tarnished in any such manner."

It has been remarked by the readers of the local press that the Colonist is now editorially conducted with a greater regard for the proprieties of journalism, and for the rights and feelings of business and political rivals, than formerly. There is a decided improvement in the tone, style and effectiveness of its leading articles. The vulgar abuse of THE TIMES, which too frequently disgraced "true journalism," has been at least temporarily—and we hope permanently—laid aside. With the exception of the unfair and unprofessional comments upon the suit of Mr. DUNSMUIR against this journal, and which were published after the writ had been served, we are free to admit that our contemporary has taken a longer stride towards true journalism in the past three months than at any previous period of its history. But to the moral regeneration of our local contemporary, paradoxical though it may appear, is due the Vancouver World's present deplorable condition. The Upas tree was not killed, when taken out root and branch, as it ought to have been; and having been transplanted to other soil it is now vainly struggling to live that it may fulfil its mission to blight and destroy whatever may come within the contaminating influence of its presence. While congratulating the citizens of Victoria upon the relief that has thus been afforded them, we must express our deep sympathy for Vancouver. It deserved a better fate than to become even a transient resting place for anything that is so inherently bad and constitutionally degenerate as the journalistic Pariah who has the audacity to prate about "true journalism."

We had hoped that one of the results of the libel suit of Mr. DUNSMUIR vs. THE TIMES, to which the "true journalist" refers, would have been an agreement between the newspapers of the province to combine for the defence of the privileges and immunities of the press, in order that the law of libel might never again be used as a pretext to persecute and coerce. We believed that it was in the interest of the profession—and, more important still, in the interest of the people as a whole—that all "true journalists," irrespective of political, social or commercial considerations, should unite for mutual protection, and to combat the tendency among public men to accomplish by harrassing and expensive libel suits what they fail to attain by more honorable means. In other portions of the Dominion there exists a sort of "free masonry" among "true journalists" which, if it cannot honestly assist, refuses to openly condemn a brother who, in the honest performance of a duty, has incurred the displeasure of those in high official positions. And it is right and proper that it should be so. But when a journalist—whether he be a conspicuous "success" after a quarter century's experience or only a verdant egotist who acquired his knowledge of "true journalism" in a dingy law office in a backwoods village—when, we say, such journalists exult in the fact that another in the same profession "has been mulcted by a jury of honest and true men in a goodly sum and costs," they exhibit a more vindictive spirit than the "magnificent manhood" at whose feet they thus abjectly prostrate themselves. The "magnificent manhood" might claim that he sought only to vindicate himself. But what excuse can the obsequious Worldlings offer for putting a rod in pickle to scourge their own backs?

RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT IN THE NORTHWEST.

The late discussion in the Northwest Assembly reveals the fact that the representatives of the people are determined to make a hard fight for responsible government, and to have their rights and privileges more definitely defined. The act creating the constitution of the Territories appears to be liable to variable construction regarding this important question. By some it is construed to mean that the "Advisory Board" should act as a Cabinet, and assume all the responsibilities for executive actions to the people. The term is ambiguous. The Lieutenant Governor, although the first member of the assembly, is not responsible to the people. He is only responsible to Ottawa. In the discussion to determine the meaning "Lieutenant Governor-in-Council," it was claimed that it should be definitely defined and called forth a lively debate from the various members. The evils of the Dominion Act were pointed out, and the general argument was that by it responsible government was established. Mr. OLIVER, member for Edmonton, claimed full responsible powers for the Assembly, and argued ably against the one man government with a determination that the question can not be settled till the constitutional rights of the people were fully acknowledged. The Regina Leader takes the same view of matters and advocates that the assembly endorse Mr. OLIVER's views, which it says—"If this is done the additional machinery necessary for full responsible government will have to be given on the first opportunity." We are of the same opinion, and to judge from the tone of the assembly and the press the question at issue can no longer be delayed. The territories have patiently suffered, agitated and petitioned for their full constitutional rights and privileges, to which they are entitled and which can be no longer denied them. The people of the Northwest will have the sympathy of the Dominion in their endeavour to free themselves from the arbitrary acts of one who may prove to be a tool in the hands of the Ottawa Government.

NEW YORK'S SEWERAGE.

Next to London, New York has probably the most complete underground system of gas, water and sewerage in the world. The New York Star, in a recent article, shows the advance New York has made in that direction and its improvements over old methods. Of the 12,500 acres of the city's surface, 9500 acres have a complete sewerage system. The Croton water distributing system of street mains comprises 619.88 miles of pipe, to say nothing of various private pipes for the exclusive use of manufacturing establishments. The gas mains aggregate 700 miles and the total mileage of sewers is 421½ miles. Many these sewers are of enormous proportions, one extending from Eighth avenue to the East river being 8x12 feet, while the sewer from Broadway through Canal street to the North river is 8x16 feet, quite large enough to drive a horse and carriage through comfortably. The large sewers are built of brick laid in cement, and rest upon a semi-circular concrete foundation, which protects their base and sides. The most important and inexpensive of the new sewers are of the "wooden barrel" outlet pattern. These sewers are constructed of heavy creosoted pine and are circular in shape. The large sewers of New York furnish harbors for criminals of every class. They are not so much used by criminals now as they were several years ago, as the police are more vigilant in their espionage of the sewer entrances. On one occasion, when GEORGE W. MATSELL, was chief of police, a murderer was traced to a notorious resort of criminals on Houston street. The building was so completely surrounded that a man could not have escaped without being seen by the officers, and yet, when they came to look for him, he had disappeared as effectually and as mysteriously as if he had vanished in air. A few months later another criminal, was hemmed in, in the same house, and though search was made in the most thorough manner the man was not found. The chief, after a critical examination of the cellar, detected a slab which was not mortared as firmly as the rest. Upon moving it he found an underground passage to a large sewer, and by following the sewer some distance he found another burrowed passage which led to the cellar of a house a block and a half away.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

At the recent meeting of the Northwest Legislature the Lord's Day Ordinance was amended by adding to the list of prohibited acts on the Lord's Day; shooting off fire arms, playing pool or billards, racing on horse back, and playing any kind of game on the public streets.

Great Britain has formally annexed British North Borneo, Sarawak and Brunei, or about one third of the whole island of Borneo, an area of about ninety-six thousand square miles. This territory is even more valuable than that of Upper Burma, and since the British North Borneo Company took over its domains the surveyors have been unable to make out grants fast enough for the planters and speculators who apply for them. It appears that the cultivation of tobacco in Borneo is enormously profitable, as a kind of tobacco only reaches perfection there which is, according to the London newspapers, to other tobaccos as Havana is to native Canadian. The remainder of the island is claimed by the Dutch, who are rapidly developing its resources in the south.

†Title to "Parable against persecution," in the Library of Congress at Washington.

A FEW STRICTURES BY MR. STENHOUSE, EX-M. P. P.

To the Editor of the Vancouver Weekly:

Sir,—I have first of all to congratulate you on the success of your new venture in journalistic enterprise, a sample of which I am delighted to receive. It is true your politics would seem to have undergone some modification—but what matters? Consistency, in these days, is no proof of sincerity, while its opposite is often redeemed by the noblest attributes of patriotism. You must allow me, however, to take exception to an article which appears, under the head of "Horrors of Mormonism," in your weekly edition of November 1, though I hope I am not expected to notice at any length the strangely obscene talk of Mrs. A. Newman, before an assembly of ladies in New York. No wonder it elicited, as we are told, "exclamations of horror from all parts of the house." Such language and such allusions are never heard among the Latter Day Saints, but are common enough probably in the more modern quarters of Salt Lake City, where the "Missionaries of Utah" hook their fish and call them "Mormons." To find such Mormons it is not a necessity for any one but a missionary to go so far as Utah. We have some very good fellows in the Northwest, who had earned the playful prefix of "Mormon" long before the arrival of the genuine stock. In Utah the "Jack" or mock Mormon has a commercial value, only to be appreciated by the despairing or weary when his report is overdue. If the putrid utterances of Mrs. Newman had one grain of solid truth, I would assuredly quit the priesthood and the communion of the Mormon Church before the advent of another day. It is the only church in Christendom, as far as I know, where immorality of the laity, as well as of the clergy, is punished by excommunication.

Your assumption that I preside over the Latter Day Saints in the Northwest is quite erroneous. Our President is Mr. C. C. Card, a son-in-law of the late Brigham Young and the first Mormon, as it happens, that I was privileged to meet. Our church has no lack of giants both in mind and stature, many of whom are the product of our much decried polygamy, and it would have been the most ridiculous thing in the world had the local presidency been assigned to an obscure monogamic hobby individual like the late member for Comox.

In another article you quote, with amusing complacency, the last report of the anti-Mormon Governor of Utah, in which he says: "This priesthood not only rules the church But governs the state, &c., &c." Well, and what then? Will it surprise your readers to learn that not a priest, bishop or president can be ordained or continued in office without the assent of the people expressed by vote in open meeting? Or will it stun you to hear that on all such questions the ladies—the poor down-trodden women of Utah—have an equal voice with the men? If there is any church in Canada where the ladies and the laity have more power over their clergy, I shall be glad to hear of it.

I would refer the candid inquirer to a book of travels lately published by Phil. Robinson, a Gentile and a man of the world, entitled "Sinners and Saints," (Boston: Roberts Brothers). No one can read the book without feeling that the author is indeed a "seeker after truth." He flatters neither sinner nor saint. Had he catered for either, his book would have sold better.

One word as to polygamy, and here I wish it to be understood that I am now speaking for myself alone—not as a Mormon, but as a man. Everybody knows that the criminal element in bigamy is the deception which is practiced on one, and sometimes two, of the three parties interested. Among the Latter Day Saints, polygamy can only be contracted by consent of all who are concerned in it. I have still to graduate in monogamy; but when I have once attained such eminence, it is not the satire or opinion of intermeddling governments that will deter me from seeking higher honors in matrimony. As a free-born Briton, I shall certainly claim equal rights with the Indian, Mahommedan, and other subjects of Her Majesty. You will, therefore, understand once for all, and quite apart from any doctrine supposed to be taught by Mormons, that monogamy, though consecrated by centuries of crime and error, is yet very far from defining the creed or prescribing the practice of your very faithful servant,

A. MAITLAND STENHOUSE.

DUNSMUIR VS. THE TIMES.

To The Editor of The Times:

Sir,—The public I am sure are much indebted to you for publishing so fully the proceedings in the Supreme Court of the Province during the trial of that extraordinary case, "Dunsmuir versus The Times."

I am informed that during the progress of the trial my name was introduced and the facts stated and commented upon: That I, in conjunction with Mr. Dunsmuir, was a stockholder in the Foster Gold Mining and Milling Co.; that an application had been made by the company to the Government for public money, and that it had been granted and paid. If it was attempted to be shown or inferred that any analogy existed between the Hon. Mr. Dunsmuir's position in that instance and mine, it was incorrect, as we held at the time diametrically opposite opinions upon the propriety of the company's application to the Government for money. If Mr. Dunsmuir has since reduced and became converted to my side of the question it is news to me. The circumstances briefly are these: The Foster G. M. & M. Co. built a road to their property, costing several thousand dollars. It was suggested by some of the stockholders that the Provincial Government should be asked to recoup the company wholly or in part for that expenditure. I opposed the application, stating my reasons, but my views were overruled. It was subsequently suggested that a deputation, principally composed of the members of the Legislature who were stockholders in the company, and there were several, including the Hon. Mr. Dunsmuir, should await upon the members of the Government upon the subject, as their influence it was thought would be sufficient to attain success. I positively declined to join and the matter then dropped. I subsequently ascertained that an application had been or was to be sent to the Government for a grant of money. I saw the Attorney-General, the Hon. A. R. E. Davie, and explained to him why I considered public money should not be paid to the Foster Company, and I have reason to know that my views had some weight, for at a meeting of the trustees or stockholders of the company it was proposed to pass a vote of censure upon your humble servant for what was styled "my interference" in preventing the company from obtaining the promise of a much larger sum from the public treasury than they had hoped for. I told the gentlemen present at that meeting that they were at liberty to pass as many votes of censure upon me as they wished; that I expected to survive it, and the fact that I now address you proves that their displeasure has not annihilated me. I am now more convinced than ever that the payment to the company should not have been made. I will in justice add that I believe the Attorney-General was anxious to elicit information and to do right, but I regret that I was only partially able to convince him, as the public accounts now testify, as the Foster Company was paid two thousand dollars by the Government. I am, yours, obediently,

ROBERT BEAVEN.

Blue Ribbon Meeting—Personal Mention—Local Jottings.

The Blue Ribbon meeting of 17th inst. was highly creditable alike as to attendance and programme rendered. While the amusing was not unrepresented, yet the tendency was to the furtherance of the good work. Although the society has been organized scarcely more than two years, it has shown more than fair results. After opening hymn Mr. C. Horrel offered an earnest prayer. Of what followed we are able to give only a summary: Mr. H. Pollard, song, well rendered; Mrs. Foster, reading, reflected much credit, as did a temperance recitation later; Mr. Fullerton, song, received continued applause; Mr. W. L. Pollard, sang, in his usual clever style; Mr. W. Perkins, song a joy of the evening; Mrs. Horrel, an admirable reading; Mrs. Lee, song, not much merit, also an interesting reading; Misses C. and E. Horrel, recitations cleverly given. A spelling bee, in which several ladies and gentlemen joined the public school children, elicited much interest and proved Master D. Maxwell champion. Mr. Baynes, song, a treat to all. Master Samuel Horrel, very pleasing recitation; temperance remarks by Mr. C. Horrel and the President were heartily appreciated.

Mr. George Stainburn, B.A., formerly a teacher in this district, is at present visiting old friends, who are very happy at again meeting him. Mrs. Foster is spending a few weeks among friends, and is much pleased with the island.

Almost two inches of snow fell on the night of the 13th instant; but soon disappeared.

The largest deer killed on the island for some time was one of 146 pounds by Mr. Furness last week. It was not shipped.

Mr. Baynes is erecting a lumber yard, which will be a convenience to the residents. Pleased to note that he is quite well after his accident.

It cures Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Torpidity of the Liver, Constipation, and all disease arising from Impure Blood, Female Complaints, etc.

Football Accident.

The many friends of our popular young citizen and lacrosse player, Mr. D. W. Morrow, will regret to learn of a painful injury which he received while playing in the Rugby football game, at Beacon Hill, on Saturday afternoon. He had run with the ball nearly the whole length of the field and was within a few feet of the touch line when he was stopped by Coombe. Both fell and in the fall Morrow's shoulder was dislocated. The bone was reset and bandaged by Dr. Milne. The injury, though not serious, is painful and will keep the secretary of the lacrosse club in quarantine, so to speak, for about a week.

Notice of the distribution of the above prizes will be given. *

Freedman, of London, Eng., acted as groomsman. The bride was given away by her uncle. On Thursday the young couple left for the Sound, proceeding thence to Vancouver from where they arrived on last night's steamer. THE TIMES with Mr. Strouss' many friends extends congratulations.

Trees of British Columbia.

Few woods equal the Douglas spruce for bridges and ship-building, especially masts and spars. The red pencil cedar grows on the east coast of Vancouver, and also on the shores of some of the lakes of the interior. The arbutus reaches 50 ft. in height and 20 in. in diameter, but the conifers are perhaps the most remakable and widely scattered trees of the country. The beginning of May is the season for the fresh maple syrup. The trees are tapped in April, when the sap begins to rise, and the bunches of red catkins, the flower, are suspended from every branch, and very beautiful they look, though nothing, it is said, can equal the loveliness of their gorgeous autumn tints of flame-color and orange. The catkins will soon drop off, and the leaves make their appearance.—English Paper.

SUPREME COURT.

The Fall Assizes opened this morning in the Supreme Court, James Bay, at 11 o'clock.

The following Grand Jury were called: W. J. Armstrong, H. Brown, C. G. Ballentyne, J. A. T. Caton, Thos. Earle, M. Humber, G. A. McTavish, F. Page, W. H. Redmond, F. G. Richards, Jr., D. Spencer, A. Turner, F. W. Simpson, W. McKeon, C. E. Redfern. Thos. Earle was chosen as foreman.

The names of the petit jurors were then called.

His Lordship in charge said the cases were not numerous and were also simple in character. Most can be settled in a few minutes, but the jury must give them careful consideration. It is necessary that the machinery of the law should be useful. The cases which are very simple are larceny 'jail breaking and obtaining money under false pretences. There are two cases which are more serious. One is a charge of libel and another of sending threatening letters. Another case of malicious injury deserves serious attention. This case is one in which it is alleged that parties took the law into their own hands. Nothing can be more rediculous to society. He then spoke of the case of libel, libel, which causes injury to the person damaged. A civil arrangement only goes to make amends to an injured man's character. No man has a right to injure a man's character. It is as valuable to him as his watch or his purse. His Lordship quoted from Shakespeare to show that a man's character is prized most highly. When the libel is published concerning a person holding an office, which is very high, the Attorney-General sometimes thinks it proper to file an information. In other cases when people wish to file an information, as in the present case, the matter goes before a grand jury and a prima facie case must be made out and sent to a petty jury. The first case to which your attention is called is a case of larceny, which is very simple. The next is the case of Waterhouse. He then referred to the murder case which would require careful deliberation. In the libel case it is not necessary to go into the question of justification. If a libel was published then a true bill must be returned. In the Griffin case perhaps the Grand Jury took the trouble to read newspapers. No notice should be taken of the reports in which a statement is made that the prisoner had a stereotyped smile or appeared in his usual good humor. It is not necessary to take the words published. Some of the threatening letters are in good Greek. The Spanish is not very grammatical. There are some contractions in the Greek, and also some faults in grammar. In making out the Greek letters His Lordship said he did not have the difficulty he had in making out the wretched scrawl sent from the police court. No man, woman nor child could make it out and in the Attorney General's office complaints were made of the writing. If the Grand Jury consider that men are roaming around the street who should be arrested, or a nuisance, they can so report to the court.

Theo. Davie, Q. C., said in the case of Edward Hodge the defendant wished to have a speedy trial. The case would take up some time and the only question was was whether the lock-up was a proper place of confinement. It was more a subject for argument.

His Lordship said the man should take his trial at the Assizes.

The Court adjourned at 11:45 until 1 o'clock.

After the judge had dismissed the petit jury for lunch Mr. Davie applied for a postponement of the trial of Campbell and Kennedy for conspiracy, and also a postponement of the case of Rogers vs Ellis & Sargison for libel for ten or twenty days, to give him time to plead and to get a special jury. Mr. Mills, who was in the body of the court but not robed, had his attention called to the ex parte application, and through the Deputy Attorney General called his lordship's attention to the fact that the grand jury had not as yet brought in a bill and that no order could therefore be made. His Lordship addressing Mr. Davie said that he was too premature and was jumping before he got to the stile.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The first case called this afternoon was the charge of embezzlement against D. R. Munro, which was laid over from the Spring Assizes. D. M. Eberts, of Messrs. Eberts & Taylor, appeared for the prosecution; Charles Wilson defended. Munro pleaded "not guilty."

The following petty jurors were sworn: W. Ingram, Robert Walker, Alex. McClaren, R. J. McLaughlin, John McInnes, W. H. Spoffard, Jabez King, C. F. Beaven, George Walker, W. Clarke, J. W. Williams, W. S. Beckwith. R. Beauchamp, Alexander McDonald and W. J. Tippens were challenged. C. F. Beaven was chosen as foreman.

The Grand Jury entered the court with the following report: True bills in the cases of Regina vs. Tomasche, T. Waterhouse, E. Hodges, DuBois, Ellis & Sargison.

MUNRO CASE.

Francis W. Vincent was the first witness.

The evidence in this case was published at the time of the proceedings in the police court, the facts being as follows: Munro was a clerk in the employ of the O. R. & N. Company and the C. P. N. Co. It was alleged that he embezzled the sum of over $500. An investigation was held in the police court and Munro was committed for trial. At the last assizes the prosecution asked for an extension of time and the accused was held over until the fall assizes. He has been confined in the provincial gaol for the past eight months awaiting trial.

(Before Mr. Justice Crease.)

In the Legislative Assembly building, His Lordship Justice Crease presided.

C DuBois, charged with obtaining money under false pretences from A. Aaronson, pawnbroker. The prisoner pleaded "not guilty" and was undefended. The following jury were sworn: Foreman, W L Burgess, Alex McDonald, Edmond J Ward, Alex. Donaldson, S Wilson, Squire Hilton, J R Collister, Phillip R Smith, M Willis, Angus McKeon. The circumstances of the case were reported at the time of occurrence. A mixture of metallic iron was tendered by the prisoner to A. Aaronson in pledge for $45.

Mr. P. Æ. Irving opened the case for the prosecution and Mr. A. Aaronson was examined.

THE WRESTLING MATCH.

Cameron Wins the First and Third Fall.

On Saturday evening about 250 people assembled in Philharmonic Hall to witness the Greco-Roman wrestling match for $500 between D. H. Cameron, of New Westminster, and J. Smith, of Nanaimo. A dispute arose before the match commenced regarding a referee and Geo. Irving was finally selected. Thos. Carter was selected as time-keeper.

Cameron was seconded by John Hampson; Smith was aided by A. Rowe. When the men appeared on the platform the physique of Smith appeared to the best advantage. He is a young man 25 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches in height and weighs 198 pounds. He was born in Quebec and arrived in Nanaimo some months ago. He was dressed in skin colored tights with red trunks.

Cameron is a tall lithe man, 6 feet 3 inches high and also 25 years old. He is a supple, quick wrestler and his main feature is the manner in which he takes advantage of every opportunity, coupled with his remarkable strength.

At precisely 9 o'clock the time-keeper called the men to the centre of the platform and the usual hand-shaking was indulged in by the contestants. They then walked warily around each other and took their holds. In five minutes Cameron was on the floor beneath Smith, but was up again and had his rival in a similar position. He struggled and tugged away for some minutes and it appeared that neither would win a throw. Finally at 9:21 Cameron succeeded in bringing Smith on his back, and pressing his shoulders to the ground, winning the round amidst applause with a Nelson fall.

In the second round Smith acted more warily and in 8 minutes threw his opponent with a choke-lock fall.

The third round lasted 6 minutes and was won by Cameron raising Smith from the ground and securing a half-Nelson fall. Smith in his fall was slightly injured and was helped off the stage by his second and the referee.

The match was the best ever witnessed in this city and was a most creditable affair throughout.

THE CARIBOO ELECTION.

Mr. Barnard Elected Beyond a Doubt—Lillooet to Hear From.

A telegram received by Mr. Barnard last evening confirms his election as representative of Cariboo district to the House of Commons. The following additional polling places were heard from:

	BARNARD.	MCLEESE.	ROGERS.
Dog Creek	8	3	0
Big Bar	3	2	0
Chilcootin	4	3	5
Keithley Creek	7	1	12
Already published	80	77	71
Total	102	86	88

This works with them Mr. Barnard without a doubt as only one polling division remains to be heard from, that of Lillooet. One report gives Barnard a majority of seven there. Another gives McLeese a majority of two neither of which would materially alter the above results.

LATER—A despatch from Lillooet gives McLeese 12, Barnard 10 and Rogers 0. This increases Barnard's majority over McLeese to 21 and over Rogers to 33.

A TINSEL QUEEN

Knocks the Wind Out of an Italian Tenor.

On Saturday afternoon the Abbott Opera Company appeared at the New Park, Portland, in "Guy Blas" for the last time this season. The plot of the opera is founded on Victor Hugo's drama of the same name, and tells of the escapades of the Queen of Spain and her lover. The occupants of the front row enjoyed, at the close of the last act, a piece of realism which was not down on the programme nor set forth in the argument. Montegriffo, the Italian tenor, played the part of the lover, and to wind up the opera and unravel the plot, he takes poison in the last act and falls flat on his back. The Queen of Spain, (Emma Abbott), heart broken and wild with grief, faints and falls prostrate across his body. The Queen yesterday afternoon made a misstep, or misguaged the distance, for she fell in all her regal dignity with a dull, sickening thud square upon the little tenor's stomach. There was a sudden resurrection of the dead as the animated corpse gave vent to an exclamation, which sounded like a disgusted Indian. Just then the curtain dropped on the closing and shut out the aftermath.

Football.

A game of Rugby football at the hill on Saturday between the lacrosse players and the Victoria Club resulted in two trys for the former against one goal and one try for the latter. The Victoria club team was probably stronger than the one which played New Westminster a short time ago.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of tubercle germs into the system and when these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief. *
